This little guide will help you decide how to spend your day. You might want to attend a Sunday morning church service, browse around St George's Sunday Market or stumble upon the monthly Black Market in Cathedral Quarter. Combine these with one of many tours which tell you more about our great city. Alternatively you could go back to nature - pack a picnic and head off to one of our many fragrant parks or explore famous landmark venues such as the City Hall grounds or Ulster Museum. Choose to enjoy a city that is a true outdoor or public art. For those who crave some decadence a gourmet brunch might kick off some afternoon retail therapy followed by a film or some live music in a range of bars. So what are you waiting for? Belfast this Sunday, and every Sunday, is waiting for you to explore!

Belfast has something for everyone on Sundays with a treasure trove of things to see and do.

12+

After 12noon the whole city comes to life with restaurants, cafes and pubs. Whether you crave the traditional Ulster fry, a truly Belfast Sunday roast or treat yourself to an ice cream sundae you are spoilt for choice in Belfast. Many cafes and restaurants run special Sunday lunch and evening promotions. The city is also packed with many fine delis and local food shops giving you the option of going al fresco in the parks.
